

U.S. Diplomats Target Of New Russian Book

Author Is U.S. Girl Who Quit Job In Moscow

Moscow, Feb. 22.—(AP)—American diplomats are the targets of a little book—newly published by the Russians—which bears the name of Anna-Belle Bucar, the Pennsylvania girl who quit her job with the U. S. Information Service here a year ago.

The book is called "The Truth About American Diplomats."

Its 132-pages contain such charges as these:

An "extreme anti-Soviet wing" of the U. S. state department is trying to foment war with the Soviet Union.

The U. S. information service is really a setup for intelligence work.

U. S. Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith operated in the black market and ordered Russian employees to sell valuables for him.

Counselor Elbridge Broun, a native of San Francisco, was an active speculator in the black market.

Large speculators go back to the United States with "tens of thousands of dollars worth" of art works, illegally exported.

(Ambassador) Smith, undergoing treatment for a stomach ailment at Walter Reed hospital in Washington, declared the charges are "completely without foundation."

Durbrow, now attached to the army War College in Washington, said "this whole thing is absolutely cockeyed."

Doing Propaganda Work

(Miss Bucar is understood to have been doing propaganda work for the Soviet government from time to time in the past. Reports reached Americans in Moscow some months ago that she was traveling around Russian factories, telling the workers they lived better than workers in the United States.)

Miss Bucar was an administrative assistant in the information service. She complained in her letter of resignation last year that embassy policy was directed against the Russians. At the same time she disclosed she had been married 13 months before to a Russian singer, Konstantin Lapshin. They now have a baby son.

Miss Bucar is a former Pittsburgh University student from Clairton, Pa.

The book, printed by the Literary Gazette, charged that state department figures "strive to provoke war against the Soviet Union" and "they feel this is predestined by God."

Says She Knows

"I know many of these persons, since I worked under the direction of several of them, and about others heard much from those who know them intimately," the book went on. "When I speak of their political views or about them in general I speak only of what is well known to me."

The book said Durbrow "decided all questions connected with embassy personnel" on his assignment there from the summer of 1946 to the summer of 1948. He was reported to have feared the influence of Russians on embassy workers and saw to it that individuals with Russian contacts broke them off under threat of being sent home in disgrace.

It said the Moscow embassy had an informer system for reporting on the activities and views of its personnel.

Worked At Espionage

It listed as one of the chief informers Mrs. Patricia Gray Davies, wife of John Davies, one time secretary. It declared that Davies, now a member of the planning board of the state department, had used certain correspondents for espionage work and sought, through them, to plant anti-Soviet information before the American public.

It said circulation of the Russian-language magazine Amerika was so poor here embassy officials left copies in their wastebaskets, hoping charwomen would take them home and instructed embassy employees to ride subways and streetscars with copies and forget them there.

The book says an embassy worker, Mikhail Zagorodny told Miss Bucar that "more than once, at Smith's orders, he speculated in gold coins—American $10 gold pieces and Cuban 10-peso pieces—and watches."

"Zagorodny bragged that in a recent period he realized for Smith 25,000 rubles in the sale of gold coins and watches." (The diplomatic rate of exchange is eight rubles to the dollar.)

Place Hospital Under Quarantine

Gary, Ind., Feb. 22.—(AP)—The 250-bed Mercy hospital was placed under strict quarantine today to halt a spread of streptococcus infection.

Dr. L. S. Danielski, head of the hospital medical staff, who ordered the quarantine, said the infection had been brought in by a patient and had been contracted by a nurse.

He closed the hospital to all visitors and to all new patients except in extreme emergency cases.

All members of the staff will be tested to determine whether they have contracted the infection.

States Split On Worth Of Truman's Aid Plan

Washington, Feb. 22.—(AP)—State officials split sharply today over President Truman's plan to aid the nation's needy with a vast new "home relief" program.

Members of the administration's proposal to expand the social security system by adding 20,000,000 workers to the old age insurance rolls and increasing the benefits through more payroll deductions.

An Associated Press poll of governors and welfare directors showed the major "home relief" dispute centered around the sliding scale of federal contributions which the local governments would be called on to match proportionately.

Under the proposal, the largest federal grants would go to those states having the lowest per capita income. The maximum payment toward which the federal government would contribute would be $106 per month for husband and wife, and $20 for each additional family member needing aid. Participating states would put up from 40 to 75 per cent of the cost, depending on their per capita wealth.

There was no estimate of how much the "home relief" program would cost. It would be in addition to the $1,000,000,000 a year the government now spends for aid to the needy aged, blind and dependent children.

The other phases of the projected social security expansion are expected to boost the current $1,800,000,000 in payroll taxes for old age and survivors insurance to about $6,000,000,000.

To pay for that, the administration has proposed doubling the payroll tax to 2 per cent next January 1. The self-employed who would be added to the rolls under the expansion plan would pay a 2 1/2 per cent levy.

House Democratic leader McClellan (Mass.) conceded that Congress may not bring in all the persons Mr. Truman wants covered in the new program. But he told a reporter "there is no question but the major part of the program the President recommended will be adopted."

But Rep. Taber (R-N.Y.) said "I'm not in favor of taxing the people generally to pay any more gratuities to anybody unless it is a direct obligation of the government."

Hoover Urges Regrouping To Unify Farmer-Aid Plans

Washington, Feb. 22.—(AP)—A reorganized agricultural department with a single office in each farm county to handle the government's multiple farmer-aid programs was advocated by the Hoover commission today.

Such an agency, said the commission, would end one of the major criticisms of the department—that the farmer must now deal with many separate agencies which "too frequently follow conflicting policies."

Under the present setup, many counties have separate department agencies dealing with crop control, farm credit, price supports, soil conservation, school lunch activities, and forestry.

The department's rapid growth from 22,000 to 82,600 employees in the last twenty years, the commission said, has resulted in some 20 different offices reporting directly to the secretary and causing "unnecessary diffusion of authority."

"It is a loose confederation of independent bureaus and agencies," the commission said in a report to Congress.

The commission, a bipartisan group of government reorganization headed by former President Herbert Hoover, said a reorganization of the department could save taxpayers at least $80,000,000 a year as well as save farmers a lot of confusion.

However, two members of the 12-man commission disagreed with the estimate of possible savings. The dissenters, Dean Acheson, now secretary of state, and James H. Rowe, Jr., explained they did not believe that the estimated savings had been "subjected to enough scrutiny."

Action of the commission's "task force" on agricultural activities in taking sides on a controversial issue of future farm price supports attracted attention. The commission itself did not mention the subject. It did say, however, that crop adjustment programs should be operated on a "standby, rather than continuous basis."

THE TRIPLE ATOMIC THREAT

Early in 1943, when the U. S. Navy was losing dozens of ships to Nazi submarines in the North Atlantic and the American high command was positive there were many breaches of security among civilian employees, three members of U. S. Army Intelligence were given the precarious assignment of breaking into the Army's supposedly spy-proof Oak Ridge Atomic Project, near Knoxville, Tennessee.

"You may be shot and killed by sentries, or you may not be able to carry out this assignment in safety," the tough Intelligence colonel told the three agents, all in civilian clothes, on a Thursday night in the Pentagon. "You are to leave Washington tonight—separately—and to meet at midnight sharp on Saturday in the girls' dormitory at Oak Ridge, deep inside the steel gates."

None of the men ever had been to the plant before, but one of them had hunted squirrels in that territory years long past. But each realized the danger of the assignment. Oak Ridge was surrounded by a high steel fence, whose wires were interwoven with electrically-charged strands that would shock a man into unconsciousness, if not kill him immediately. They knew, too, that armed guards were stationed every 40 yards inside the length and breadth of the enclosure, with orders to shoot to kill any intruders.

At 11:30 p. m., Saturday night Agent No. 1 entered the dormitory hall. He had climbed a high tree, swung from it overhanging branches to another tree inside the fence, shimmed down to the ground and sauntered nonchalantly about. The closest guards at the fence never heard him. He hummed a cigarette off one guard further inside the grounds and asked directions to the girls' dormitory.

A short time later No. 2 showed up, none the worse for wear or war. He arrived in Knoxville Friday, had sized up the situation and had chosen to enter the plant the easy way. Dressing in overalls, he had joined a crew of workers whom he knew worked inside the fence, and had ridden in a truck with them through the gate without question. Inside, he disassociated himself from the group of plumbers—none of whom questioned his being among them—and hid in the men's room until 11:35 p. m.

No. 3 arrived only a few minutes before midnight. His colleagues, who had been waiting anxiously for him and feared for his safety, broke into relieved smiles. He was escorting a tipsy female worker at the plant. He had "picked up" the girl in Knoxville, had spent the day entertaining her, and had waited in a nearby tavern while she went to the gates to get him—her "lifelong" friend, she said—a temporary visitor's pass so that he could show her to the dormitory.

The agent kissed her goodnight, then greeted his flabbergasted fellow-agents.

"I wanted to kill two or three birds with one stone," he remarked, smiling broadly.

(The names of these three agents never will be published, with their consent, but No. 3 happens to be a Congressman today. Or wouldn't you have guessed it?)

Roy Keehn, Civic, Military Leader In Illinois, Dies

Chicago, Feb. 22.—Roy D. Keehn, 71, for many years prominent as a lawyer, soldier and public official and one time widely known in this newspaper business, died last night at Passavant hospital. He entered the hospital a week ago after suffering a stroke.

Keehn years ago. Keehn, a leader in military and civic affairs in Illinois for many years, was a retired Lieutenant General of the Illinois National Guard. YOU CAN ENJOY Good Health STOMACH AILMENTS, WEAK KIDNEYS, RHEUMATIC PAINS, ARTHRITIS, NEURITIS and such complaints as Headaches, Nervousness, Acids, Indigestion, Lack of Vitality, Energy, Poor Appetite, Underweight, Dizzy Spells.

Drugless Health!
NO MATTER how long you have been suffering from stomach, kidney and rheumatic distress, and what drugs you have tried before, you can, now, hope for relief if you take GEO-MINERAL. With your eyes SEE the results seven days after you start taking it.

DRUGGISTS, Chemists cannot make GEO-MINERAL. It comes from the earth—Nature's laboratory. Contains NO dope, NO alcohol, NO oil. ONLY Nature's minerals—the oldest, most reliable remedy for rheumatism, arthritis, kidney and stomach ailments.

Wonder Minerals
FOR THOUSANDS of years sufferers, on advice of doctors, go to mineral springs to get cure, or relief. The late President Roosevelt used to go to Mineral Springs in Georgia. He was helped or would not have gone there twice a year.

WE HAVE all heard of the miraculous springs of Lourdes, France and famous Thionon in ancient Greece, where, according to legend, Hercules, the god of eternal strength and youth, drank its waters and bathed to be forever young.

IF YOU ARE a sufferer, and can not go to the mineral springs, try GEO-MINERAL which contains a blend of the same minerals that can be found at the world's best springs. The minerals in it may work miracles.

Amazing Results
WATCH your elimination from your bowels two or three days after you start using GEO-MINERAL. The waste, black as coal, will break away and you will SEE it! You may see impurities—poisonous waste—coming out of your kidneys, and feel the relief. Be sure to watch for all this to realize its priceless value.

MEDICAL records show 65% of men and women over 35 suffer from nutritional mineral-iron anemia. When you feel nervous, dull, tired, lazy, have dizzy spells, no ambition to work or play, a poor appetite when your eyes lack that bright spark and your mind brilliance, when headaches get the best of you, and you feel old before your time, and life seems not worth living, with worry wearing you down—GEO-MINERAL may be the answer.

Aids In Filing 1948 Income Tax Return

(Editor's note: this is one of a series of articles on who must do what in filing your tax owed. Remember: In 1948 Congress made changes in the law to cut taxes, particularly for married couples. Washington, Feb. 21—P—March 15 is the deadline for filing your 1948 income tax return. This story simply points out things to keep in mind. Later stories in this series of 12 will go into fuller detail on the different problems.)

Who must file a return? Everyone—man, woman or child—who had income in 1948 of $600 or more. If that means you—and if you owe some tax—you must file a return by March 15, and, at the same time, pay the tax in full.

If it means you—but you owe nothing because, perhaps, full tax was withheld from you in 1948—you still must file a return.

Many Have Refund Coming

Due to the tax cut, many people will have a refund coming to them because too much tax was withheld from them in 1948.

What of those who had some 1948 income but less than $600? Must they file a return? No. But—

If any tax was withheld from them, they should file a return because in that way, but that way, they may get a refund.

Here are some important things to remember because of changes in the tax law:

Husbands and wives—

Many married couples will save money this year because, for the first time, they can split their income by filing a joint return. Example:

Jones had $8,000 income, his wife none but in their joint return the tax is figured as if each claimed $4,000 of the $8,000.

Since $4,000 is in a lower tax bracket than $8,000, the combined tax on each $4,000 is less than a single tax on $8,000 would have been.

The new law also provides benefits on things like exemptions and dependents.

Wife Isn't A Dependent

Each taxpayer, or person who files a return, is now allowed a $600 exemption for himself (it used to be $500) and $600 for each dependent.

A wife is not classified as a dependent. If she files separate return she claims her own $600 exemption and her husband, filing his own separate return, claims his own $600 exemption, but not hers.

But when husband and wife file a joint return, each claims a $600 exemption, or a total of $1,200 exemption in that one return.

And everyone who files a return gets an extra $600 exemption if he reached 65 years of age before the end of 1948.

And everyone who files a return gets another $600 exemption if he became blind at any time before the end of 1948.

So Jones, 35, but not blind, would get a $600 exemption. Smith, 35, but blind, would get a $1,200 exemption. Brown, 65 but not blind, would get a $1,200 exemption. Adams, 65 and blind, would get an $1,800 exemption.

Extra Exemption

And the wife of a person who filed a return would get an extra exemption of $600 if she was over 65 and another $600 if she was blind.

But—you can't claim any exemption except the usual $600 for a dependent who is blind or over 65. There are no extras for aged persons.

Dependents—

Keep what follows on dependents sharply in mind, for right here Congress made a bit of a mess in changing the tax law.

A dependent is a person who is closely related to you—no matter how old or young—who got more than half his support from you in 1948.

You can't claim as a dependent anyone who had income of $600 or more. He has to file his own return.

Neither can you claim as a dependent a person who had income of $500 or more, even though it was less than $600.

Such a person—with income of $500 or more but less than $600—does not have to file a return. But you can't claim him as a dependent. You can claim as a dependent only someone whose income was under $500.

Such a person—with income of $500 or more but less than $600—does not have to file a return. But you can't claim him as a dependent. You can claim as a dependent only someone whose income was under $500.

The problem of filing an estimated tax return for 1949 and now to do it, will be explained at the end of this series.

THE STORY: John Henry and Sin Conover, vacationing at a swank resort owned by Mr. Barselou, witness the death of a woman. Later they find the body in a "recreation" pool and their luggage searched when it is moved. A cipher message put in John Henry's pocket by Angela before he died is hidden in a mechanical pencil and not found by the searchers. John Henry is in the office where Angela died. In the office he discovers maps of the area near the resort. While he examines them he is surprised by Gayner and a bellboy named Vernon.

XX

GAYNER motioned Sin cautiously toward the door. He followed her out of the office and down the wrought-iron staircase. The young bellboy threaded a path before them among the empty tables and pushed through the swinging doors into the kitchen. The hiss of hinges and their footsteps were the only noises.

"Where's the car?" asked Vernon.

"I'll bet we don't have any keys."

"The usual place. I have keys," Gayner reassured him quietly. Before he opened the back door, now Mrs. Conover, I needn't warn you that screaming or running or any commotion at all will be utterly useless. And very foolish on your part, I assure you."

They went out into the alley. Sin fought to grasp her dilemma. Here was not the terror of those frozen moments by the aviary when the white-haired savage had threatened her. The men walking on either side were not strangers. They were prosaic everyday persons—the assistant manager of her hotel and the bellboy who had brought her breakfast. Surely, Vernon in his ridiculous pillbox hat and overdecorated uniform couldn't actually kill her with that gun he carried!

Sin thought hard and said, "Wait a minute." The trio stopped. Gayner eyed her inquiringly.

Sin did her best to look tough and confidential at the same time.

"Suppose," she said, "I was to spill it to you torpedoes and not to Barselou."

Vernon asked, puzzled, "What's a torpedo?" Gayner said, "Yes?" encouragingly.

"Well—" Sin groped for words. "If you got there first, you wouldn't have to split with the big boy."

She hoped it meant more to them than it did to her.

"We certainly wouldn't," Gayner ruminated. "But, Mrs. Conover, can you give us the correct information?"

Sin nodded emphatically, "Play along with me and we'll all wear diamonds."

Vernon said, "I'm right for once." A smile nearly encroached on his freckled features. Then he confronted the other man bitterly.

"You'll probably claim you've been thinking that all along."

"No," said Gayner. "You win." He nodded Sin toward the street.

"I didn't think you knew anything, Mrs. Conover. Mr. Barselou was about to agree. I thought you were just a harmless snooper. But this puts a different light on it."

"You're going to take me to Barselou, anyway?"

"Definitely. You can make your bargain with him. As you quaintly put it, he's the big boy."

"But I really don't know anything!" Sin cried desperately. "I was just kidding!"

"Come on," said Vernon. "I'm supposed to be on duty."

They urged her out into the white sunlight of Date Street. A few paces down the block, a sober black Buick sedan nuzzled the curb. The two men walked her quickly toward the car.

From behind them, a man's high-pitched voice called, "Yoo-hoo! Mrs. Conover!"

"You don't hear him," Gayner muttered and quickened his steps.

"Mrs. Conover!" Tires whirled on cement and Mr. Trim appeared alongside the trio, perched on a bicycle. Coming up behind him was the chunky figure of Thelma Loomis, also pedaling energetically.

The Bry-Ter representative showed all his bad teeth in a waggish grin. "Ah, Mrs. Conover—you were trying to run away from me!"

"Not from you!" Sin choked.

VERNON and Gayner pushed against her from either side.

Gayner said hurriedly, "We're in quite a rush, Mr. Trim, so if—"

Sin wriggled forward frantically. "Don't wait for me, Mr. Gayner. The streets are too crowded today for what you had in mind."

Vernon's hand strayed under the tail of his tunic. Gayner's eyes were startled, but he said smoothly, "Oh, we wouldn't think of going without you, Mrs. Conover."

"I've been wanting to talk to Mr. Trim, anyway." Sin put a hand on Vernon's arm, pulling the little bellboy's hand away from his hip pocket. "It was nice of you to offer me the ride."

Thelma Loomis got off her bicycle and grated, "I'm glad that's settled. You take this machine, young lady—I'm not built for it. I shouldn't have left the hotel at all, but Trim here talked me into it." She shoved the bike at Sin.

"Here—or don't you think these things are safe?"

"Oh, yes!" breathed Sin, grabbing the handle bars.

Gayner bowed slightly. "We'll run along then, Mrs. Conover. I see we can't do anything to change your mind."

Sin couldn't do anything but shake her head.

Gayner smiled frugally. "Some other time." He jerked his head at the open-mouthed Vernon and the two got into the Buick. It slid away from the curb and turned the corner into Cahuilla Street.

Thelma Loomis clapped Sin on a trembling shoulder. "You and Trim have a good time." She strode chuckling up the street toward the Las Dunas.

Look at the Price Tag

-and at what's behind it!

You can see its smartness and test its spacious comfort.

You can road-test it, feel the lift of its mighty Fireball power, sample the utter smoothness of Dynaflo Drive.

When you're all through, we freely invite you to pull out the toughest yardstick of them all—and measure this Buick beauty on its price, and on the "deal" you get with it!

The panel shows our prices—on Buicks complete and ready to go.

Right with it you see something equally important—the simple, plain Four-Square Policy under which these Buicks are sold.

Look them over. Match them up with what you get elsewhere.

On performance, on price and on the deal, you're going to find that Buick's the buy—so much the buy, you'll see your Buick dealer fast, to get an order in with or without a car to trade.

HERE'S OUR FOUR-SQUARE SELLING POLICY!

1. NO PRICE PADDING! We guarantee our prices to contain nothing but charges that were standard practice in figuring present delivered prices. You receive an itemized bill of sale showing all charges. And we display our prices in our showroom.
2. NO "LOADING" OF UNWANTED ACCESSORIES. All cars are delivered with accessories as ordered. We pledge ourselves to add no "extras" you do not want.
3. NO COMPULSORY TRADE-INS. Selling used cars is part of our business. Naturally we like to take cars in trade. But you do not have to sell your car to us. We will take your order, and deliver your car, without requiring a car in trade!
4. NO COLLUSION WITH "GRAY MARKETERS." We will not knowingly be party to a sale of Buick cars to any individual who operates in the "gray market." Our interest is entirely in delivering cars to bona fide customers.

DELIVERED AT YOUR DOOR INCLUDING RADIO, UNDERSEAT HEATER, DEFROSTER, WINDSHIELD WASHER, BACK-UP LIGHTS—AND DYNAFLO DRIVE ON ROADMASTER MODELS.

Deflationary London Note

London—(P)—The London zoo now values its common frogs and toads at threepence apiece (five cents).

A year ago it put them at sixpence. The shrinkage was disclosed in a report on the zoo's year-end stock-taking.

This showed 6,337 birds, mammals, reptiles and fish worth 89,577 pounds ($358,308 dollars).

Included were a common hippopotamus and a black rhinoceros at 2,000 pounds each ($8,000).

INDIA TRADES TEA, JUTE FOR WHEAT

New Delhi—(P)—India is trading tea and jute for badly needed wheat. A food ministry spokesman says India is negotiating with Russia for 100,000 tons of wheat, for which it would give 10,000 tons of tea. Last year India and Russia agreed to exchange 50,000 tons of wheat for 5,000 tons of tea.

India hopes to get 700,000 tons of wheat from Australia in exchange for jute and cash.

Monday Night "Y" Dance Attended By 100 Young Adults

Close to 100 young people from Jacksonville and surrounding area gathered at the Youth Center Monday evening to attend the dance held there between 8:45 and 10:45 p.m.

Boots Brennan and his ten-piece orchestra were on hand to provide music for the dancers.

Those attending from out of town included young people from Roodhouse, White Hall, Chapin and Bluffs. The group was made up of college students, nurses and young working people.

Following the dance, a meeting was held with a large number of young people remaining to attend. It was decided that on next Monday night, the night which is reserved for young adults exclusively, an informal sing will be held from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Dancing will be from 8:45 to 10:45 p.m.

All young people in this area are cordially invited to take part in these functions, providing they are between 18 and 25 years of age. No membership in any organization is required.

Sign On Safe In Elevator Office Says Its Open

Members of the sheriff's force went to Mercedia Tuesday morning to investigate the burglary of the A. B. Chrisman grain elevator office, which was entered through a window some time Monday night.

Officials of the grain company reported that the office and warehouse were ransacked but that nothing was taken.

The safe in the elevator office was unlocked. A sign on the door of the safe proclaimed that fact, which probably prevented damage by the burglars expected to open it by force.

Deputies said a window was pried open to gain entrance to the building.

Fields adjacent to the C. D. (Pat) Kenney farmstead were too soft to permit auto parking Tuesday and hundreds of persons who attended the largest farm sale to be held in west central Illinois this season were forced to park their automobiles along the roadside as much as a mile away from the house.

Hundreds of other people who "kinda wanted to take in the sale" retreated from the prospect of walking a mile or so. "I wanted to go, but not that bad," declared one hefty Greene county visitor.

More determined folks, estimated from 1,500 to 2,500, attended to see an extra long line of high grade farm machinery and some livestock sold by four auctioneers.

Combine Beats List Price
Observers noted "a general softening" of all farm machinery bids. Only one piece of machinery brought more than its list price, a radical departure from the prices paid immediately after the demise of OPA, during a period of unusually high farm incomes and slender tool production.

A new No. 55 John Deere 12 foot, self-propelled combine sold for $5,000, almost $200 more than its list price.

There was spirited bidding on two of the seven tractors sold. A Model A 1948 John Deere was finally sold for $2,225, but this price was topped by a 99 Oliver new last year, which brought $2,450.

Other tractor sales were 1932 Model A John Deere, $1,225; 1941 Model B John Deere, $900; 1946 Model H John Deere, $750; 1946 Model G, $875; Model D John Deere, $350.

Machinery Prices Lower
A four-row John Deere corn planter brought $602.50. One four-row tractor cultivator went for $250 and a two-row cultivator sold for $196.

A four bottom I.H.C. plow commanded $265 and a three bottom John Deere plow went for $260. Three 10 foot Graham Home plows sold for $245, $230 and $215.

Two model 101 John Deere one-row corn pickers, new last year, brought the same price, $330 each. A 17-7 VanBrunt tractor double disc grain drill, complete with grass seed and fertilizer attachments, brought $465.

A 16-7 single disc drill sold for $375. Other representative machinery sales were: power mowers, $230 and $150; tandem discs, $200 and $185; four section harrow, $60; 50 foot grain elevator and hoist, $547.50; hog fountains, $55; field cutters, $170 and $150; manure spreader, $250; self-feeder, $112.50; hog houses, $31; air compressor, $100; 500 gallon fuel tank and pump, $87.50; oil burner tank heater, $35; A.C. combine $385; No. 17 John Deere combine, $385.

Cloudy And Chilly
New and then the sun managed to break through the day's overcast sky. The temperature was raw enough to make an extra pair of pants feel mighty comfortable.

The auctioneers were W. A. Doolin of Waverly, Roland Erixon of Jacksonville and L. L. Seeley and Son of White Hall. Bernard S. Camm was the clerk and his father, S. J., was the cashier.

The ladies of Sacred Heart church, Alexander, took over a large machine shed and did a land office business dispensing barbecue, chicken and wieners sandwiches, doughnuts, pie and coffee.

Burglars Loot Business Houses At Versailles
Versailles—Two business establishments in Versailles were broken into Monday night and at each place the cash register, juke box and cigar machine were looted of their entire contents.

Neither of the proprietors, Mrs. Jessie Sutherland, owner of Sutherland's Cafe, or Clyde Myers, who operates Meyer's Pool Room, were able to give an estimate of the amount of cash taken. Both said that they did not believe it to be very large.

The robberies occurred sometime during the night Monday and indications are that the same party or parties are responsible for both.

Thinks He Found Oil In Back Yard
Yorktown, Ill., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Eldon Orlovski believes he has discovered oil in his back yard.

A substance which appears to be oil is running from his water taps, which come from his own well. It has ruined it for drinking water, he says. Even his rabbits won't drink it. Orlovski sent a sample to the University of Illinois for tests.

Dr. Stenzel Leads Discussion For Great Books Group

Dr. Joachim Stenzel was guest leader for the Great Books seminar at the Public Library on Monday evening, when the discussion was based on Plutarch's Lives.

Four selections from the Lives are included in the Great Books course: Lycurgus, the Spartan lawgiver, Numa Pompilius, said to have been the founder of many religious institutions at Rome, Alexander, king of Macedonia, and Caesar, the great Roman general and statesman.

In his introductory remarks, Dr. Stenzel classified the first two Lives as fiction and the last two as historical fiction and pointed out the fact that Plutarch wrote for moral effect rather than for historical truth. He also expressed the fact that Plutarch's Lives have exerted great influence on the moral thinking and on the literature of the world. Shakespeare, for instance, having used Plutarch's Caesar as the basis for his play, Julius Caesar.

On Monday, March 7, Maurice V. Moriarty will be guest leader when the Confessions of St. Augustine, Books I-VIII, will constitute the basic reading.

F. F. A.—FRANKLIN CHAPTER
Soil testing has been a major activity of the Franklin chapter, Future Farmers of America. It helped the chapter win last year's title of No. 1 group in Section 15.

Through their tests the boys have learned that a considerable amount of soil improvement application is sheer waste, that minerals are often applied where there isn't a deficiency or an inadequate amount is spread on land that really needs limestone or phosphate or potash, or maybe all three.
